

SAFETY

Safety is a state of mind and is an inherent part of everything we do.

A positive safety culture within all levels of command must exist. Leaders will ensure appropriate level of training is provided prior to the execution of any task regardless of its complexity.

We will adhere to our Core Values, established safety policies and procedures, and commit to doing what is right.

Operational Risk Management shall be embraced at all levels and exist for all activities, both on and off duty.

All personnel are responsible for identifying hazards and intervening if they witness inappropriate or unsafe acts.

Leaders shall utilize teamwork and mentoring of personnel to achieve mission success. Commanding Officers must engage and empower small unit leaders so that they own their actions.

Operational Excellence is the expectation. Our pride should be unmistakable and our actions beyond reproach. Accomplishing our mission in a safe and professional manner is the standard.

“Mission First, People Always”

Michael A. Rocco
Major General, USMC
Commanding General 3d Marine Aircraft Wing